S: "Did you see that article in the New York Rocker? They treated you like you're the next big thing..."

TERRY: "Oh really? I thought Human Switchboard was the next big thing."

WARD: "I thought Medium Medium were the next big thing."

TERRY: "No, they're the next small thing..."

S: "So, what about the blues?"

JEFFREY: "What about the blues? I think they should get in a much better mood and just think, well, hell, you know, it ain't that bad. If they wanted to succeed they could. And they don't have to be poor, and they could just get their shit together, and they don't have to have the blues forever."

E: "How long have you been writing poetry?"

JEFFREY: "I'll tell you about a song that no one knows that we even play anymore. A song Louie wrote - he writes all our songs. It goes, it goes..." "Cheeeez Street...da rats are eatinnn...da street. What are you doin on Cheez Streeet? Now this is serious."

The Sheiks of Shake are the best band in Los Angeles. They're better than us. They're better than anybody. They're better than X. They make the Blasters look like Gary Puckett and the Union Gap. They write lyrics like, 'The Devil was dressed like the Devil...' They have a single on Mystic Records. It's called 'Bullets in My Gun.'

E: "You've been compared to Janis Joplin."

JEFFREY: "What? Well, I don't comb my hair either, but I don't think it's fair to compare me just because of that."

TERRY: "He was being compared to Wendy O. Williams at one time."

E: "Ask yourselves a question you don't already know the answer to..."
